

California Toxic Protection Pledge

We seek to move California rapidly towards 100% renewable energy. Moving towards that goal and in the interest of public health, we need to support efforts that immediately protect Californians including:

- As recommended by state scientists, immediately require a human health buffer from all oil and gas development in areas where people live, work and play so our kids and communities don't get sick.
- Stop the most dangerous forms of oil production including fracking, steam injection and offshore drilling to protect our air quality, food supply, and clean groundwater supplies.
- Ensure that all dumping of toxic oil wastewater onto the ground and into drinking water sources is prevented.
- End crop irrigation with oil field wastewater so that toxic chemicals don't infiltrate California's food.

I pledge to support these efforts to protect Californians from these toxic practices.
